Coco(translated in Greek)

This Pixar production, winner of an Oscar for best animated film, draws inspiration from the Mexican “Día de los Muertos” (Day of the Dead) during which friends and family pray and remember departed souls, helping them in their spiritual journey.

In spite of the mysterious ancestral ban on music within his family, Miguel dreams of becoming a dexterous musician like his role model, Ernesto de la Cruz.

After a series of odd events, craving to prove his talent, Miguel finds himself in the dazzling and colourful Land of the Dead. On the way he meets Hector, a charming crook, and together they will take a wonderful journey as they try to discover the truth of Miguel’s family history.

Directed by: Lee Unkrich, Adrian Molina

Florence Foster Jenkins

Three-time Oscar winner, Meryl Streep, plays Florence foster Jenkins, a cacophonous (to say the least) cult opera singer who “took New York by storm” in the 1930s and 1940s. This hilarious yet moving film is based on a true story.

Socialite New Yorker, Madame Florence, believes she is the opera singer par excellence in spite of her complete lack of technical competence. Her husband and agent, St Clair Bayfield, an English aristocrat and failed actor, maintains her illusion. When Florence decides to give a concert at the legendary Carnegie Hall in 1944, St Clair knows he is about to face the greatest challenge of his life.

Directed by: Stephen Frears

Starring: Meryl Streep, Hugh Grant, Simon Helberg, Rebecca Ferguson
